They grow them big at the Clarke house hold

This Basil leaf grown by Frank and Avril is so large they have submitted it to the Guinness Book of Records. We await with interest the result (may take three months). Pity it wasn't grown a few years ago. I'm sure Adam (of Eve fame) could have found it vey handy

Roses

Feed roses with Rose Food. If mildew and black spot hasn't already driven you to pruning your roses, then now is the time to prune them back lightly to encourage an autumn flush on repeat flowering varieties. This summer pruning is easily done if you pick the flowers for vases inside. Place cut roses in water straight away with a drop of Plant Starter in the water, and keep in a cool position inside. They should last for one to three weeks.

Pruning

Cut back summer flowering herbaceous perennials, mulch with compost and water well. They should reward the attention with a flush of autumn flowers. Dead head agapanthus that should be finished flowering now. Don't let the heads go to seed. They propagate by seed easily and can become an environmental problem if allowed to spread.

Old age is golden, or so I've heard it said.
But sometimes I wonder, as I crawl into bed.
With my ears in a draw, my teeth in a cup, My glasses on the table until I get up. As sleep dims my vision, I say to myself. Is there anything else
I should lay on the shelf? The reason know my youth is all spent? Is my Get-up-and-go has got up and went! But in spite of it all, I'm able to grin. And think of the places my getup has been.

Do you need phosphorus in your soil?

A simple way is to look at your plants. Those suffering from Phosphorus deficiency are often stunted particularly during the early stage of development. The mature slowly produce few flowers and have a week and poorly developed root system. Older leaves can be a darker green colour, sometimes purplish.

How can you add phosphorus to your soil. Most synthetic and organic fertilisers contain some level of phosphorus. Check the NPK reading on fertiliser packets to determine and compare the rate of Phosphorus to other nutrients. Of the organic fertilisers the best sources of phosphorus include Blood and bone and animal manures especially those from grain fed animals such as poultry. Making compost from your garden waste and returning it to the soil is a simple way to cycle and conserve phosphorus.

Most annual plants (plants that grow, reproduce and die in one year) require large amounts of phosphorus as they begin to grow. Plants grown in cold weather which have limited roots and rapid top growth, such as lettuce, are high phosphorus users. Legumes also require plentiful amounts of phosphorus.

CRAB-APPLE JELLY

Serve with Roast Beef. A few cloves or some bruised root ginger may be added while the apples are cooking to give extra flavour.

Ingredients: 2,75 kg (5 ½ Lb) crab-apples, washed. 1.8 ltr (3 pints) water, sugar.

Cut the crab-apples into quarters without peeling or coring and put them in a preserving pan with the water. Bring to the boil and simmer gently for about 1 ½ hours until the fruit is soft and pulpy, adding a little more water if necessary. Stir from time to time to prevent sticking. Spoon the fruit pulp into a jelly bag or cloth attached to the leg of an upturned stool and leave it strain into a large bowl for at least 12 hours.

Discard the pulp remaining in the jelly bag. Measure the extract and return it to the pan with 500 gm (1 lb) sugar for each 600 ml (1 pint) extract. Heat gently, stirring, until the sugar has dissolved, then boil rapidly for about ten minutes. Test for a set and when setting point is reached, take the pan off the heat and remove any scum with a slotted spoon. Pot and cover the jelly as usual

Once I've had my coffee I can use big words.
Before coffee, I mostly use ones with four letters.

A mother and daughter are out shopping. As she watches her mother trying on a new fur coat, the daughter says, Mum, don't you realise that some poor, dumb beast suffered so that you could have that coat? The mother replies, Don't be rude – that's no way to talk about your father.

Jobs for march

Rake leaves into a pile and add to your compost heap
Put cold loving tulip, daffodil, crocus and hyacinth bulbs in the fridge for a few weeks of pre-planting chill.
Dig Sweet pea beds, and add lime.
Prune back Native Hibiscus by about one third now the flowering has finished.
Begin feeding potted plants fortnightly with liquid fertiliser to strengthen them before winter.
Sow cool climate grass seeds such as rye and fescue to patch and thicken lawns for the cool months ahead

The great miscalculation gardeners make is to concentrate on the plants instead of the soil in which they plant them. Never lose fight of the old adage "the answers lies in the soil". Attend to it's needs by conditioning, mulching, enriching, feeding and moisturising.

BIRTHFLOWERS

The tradition of assigning a different birthflower originated in the northern hemisphere. A baby born in March could be presented with bunches or pots of jonquils or daffodils, which are in abundance at that time of the year. In the southern hemisphere however, March babies would have to wait six months before catching their first glimpse of the designated birth flower, and so the custom has little relevance in countries south of the equator.

The list was published in "Burke's Backyard" (remember him?)

of suggested Australian birth flowers

You may agree or not

From Pauline,

I planted Broccoletti and Broccoli. The white collars (pieces of 90mm plumbing pipe) are an attempt to keep the cabbage butterfly away as they are supposed to be territorial so avoid anything white which indicates another butterfly.

Here are 2 of the 6 Dutch Longshank Pumpkin - related to the Butternuts. All weigh between 1.5 and 3 kg but are still green. Original seed from Lois Sharp maybe 3 years ago.
